

MY TRAVEL TRACKER APP

My Travel Tracker; the ultimate travel journal and community app. Designed and founded by a solo female traveller for all types of travellers worldwide. Who would have thought that in these times, a travel app would be a great success? Sacha, the sole founder and creator of MTT, launched the app specifically in this crazy time, wanting it to become a symbol of hope and inspiration for travellers around the globe.

Features

Sacha's story started with a simple dream, an app that would optimize travel. From pinning all your favourite spots, to sharing local stories for inspiration, creating a bucket list, organizing meet-ups and much more! Not only can all of this be shared with your family and friends, but also with the worldwide users in the MTT app. The app is designed to be user friendly, eye catching and innovative. By signing up for My Travel Tracker you are being welcomed into a global family. This app is an accompaniment for your travels, with you during every step, and there to inspire others and your own future adventures to come. No matter what kind of traveller you are, whether you are going solo for the first time, a weekend away with your girlfriends, a family holiday, or simply in need of some energy and inspiration, this travel app is for you.

Dare to Dream

Within just one week the app reached over 2K users, and the Facebook and Instagram community inspires over 10K followers daily! With these numbers growing every day, Sacha could not feel more overjoyed and proud of her travel app. However, this 27 year old's success story does not come without its highs and lows. Like any entrepreneur, you have to dare to dream and dare to do. Sacha has always been adventurous, planning her next trip before the first one is even over! She is eager, has a real lust for life and the type of positive spirit that is instantly infectious. Without any knowledge on how to build an app, she set out to create one of the best travel apps. Not only did it have to tick off a whole load of demands on the feature and usability checklist, but it had to be a free travel app.

This was important to Sacha, because she feels like everyone, no matter where you live, what your budget or reasons for travelling are, should have access to My Travel Tracker. Everyone should be able to feel and live that ultimate travel experience. Sacha's roller-coaster of a journey started in 2017 when she was backpacking Sri Lanka, and she proudly officially launched the travel app in February 2021. Corona threw her for a loop, and for a moment she was worried all the plans for My Travel Tracker would fall in the water. Instead, she picked herself up and decided that MTT would be a symbol of hope for travelling and the future. She still has big goals for the future and plans to add more features soon. My Travel Tracker is your inspiration, your guide, your companion and community. In times when we can travel, but also in times when we are stuck and longing to be out in the world. Download the app now, and prepare your future trips, or look back on your most exciting adventures and log them to share with friends, family and other users. Connect with fellow travellers and feel hopeful and inspired about your next travel journey!
